Editorial: Dedicated to the science and art of vascular surgery. Those words described Journal of Vascular Surgery at its inception, and they still apply today. Established in 1984, the journal is acknowledged as the leading journal in vascular and endovascular surgery. Readers rely on the Journal of Vascular Surgery to meet their ongoing need for accurate, up-to-date coverage of significant developments in this specialty.

Journal of Vascular Surgery reaches far more practitioners than any other vascular surgery journal. In fact, the journal has almost twice as many paid subscribers as its closest competitor. Subscribers include vascular surgeons, cardiovascular surgeons, and general surgeons. Physicians and surgeons around the world read and refer to Journal of Vascular Surgery. The journal is the most frequently cited publication in the specialty and ranks as one of the top surgery journals included in the 2007 Science Citation Index.

Readers depend on the Journal of Vascular Surgery to keep up with the rapid technological changes affecting the evaluation, study, and treatment of vascular disease and injury.

Circulation: 4,410

Audience: Vascular surgeons, cardiovascular surgeons, and general surgeons.

Affiliation: Society for Vascular Surgery
